The tempos in each column multiply by two, and are therefore like 'octaves' of each other. You could also consider them like quarter notes / eighth notes / sixteenth notes in the same tempo...

This is a useful way to think of the spectrum of tempo, when practicing musical skills. Simply use all six columns to have a well-rounded range of playing.