This graph represents the spectrum of tempo and volume that can be used for any musical material. It is helpful to have a visual reference for all the available sonic territory you can cover.

For example, drummers can use this chart to practice their alternating single-strokes until they are comfortable in all of this territory.